I have several estate sales coming up during the months of May and June. These won't be at our auction house location on Hwy 61 in Pratt. You'll need to make road trips to Turon, rural Pratt, Zenda, Macksville, and Medicine Lodge to find that special item that might just be unique to that particular sale.

There will be three sales at the auction house site in Pratt. The first will be a consignment on May 15. The second one will make you want to stick around Memorial Day weekend. Forrest Shmidl from Medicine Lodge is in the process of liquidating his antique museum. If you've ever been to the House of Cram-a-lot Museum, or if you know that Forrest is known as the Doorknobologist, you already know that this is a sale you just cannot miss! It would be impossible to sell everything of his in just one sale. If you miss this one, there will be another. Then on June 19th, we are in the process of putting together an antique and collectibles consignment.

Keep checking our website www.hammauction.com under the auctions tab for the latest postings of the sale bills. I hope you can get out and make some road trips to the auctions and that the weather cooperates. Hope to see you there!
